

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides apparatus and methods for indicating the existence of a critical event within a pilot house, including the existence of a condition of no motion.